

SAN DIEGO REGIONAL FIRE PREVENTION AND EMERGENCY PREPAREDNESS TASK FORCE

FINAL REPORT

APRIL 17, 2006

Sheriff Bill Kolender, San Diego County Sheriff's Department Fire Chief Jeff Bowman, San Diego Fire-Rescue Department

BACKGROUND INFORMATION

In October of 2003 San Diego County and other areas of Southern California experienced the most devastating wildland-urban interface fires in the history of California. Almost 740,000 acres were burned, 246 people were injured, 24 Californians lost their lives including one firefighter, and more than 3600 homes, 36 commercial properties and 1169 outbuildings were destroyed.

In response to the 2003 firestorms, San Diego Mayor Dick Murphy and Chairman of the San Diego County Board of Supervisors, Greg Cox formed the San Diego Regional Fire Prevention and Emergency Preparedness Task Force. The Task Force was comprised of representatives from federal, state and local agencies, and was co-chaired by San Diego County Sheriff Bill Kolender and San Diego Fire-Rescue Chief, Jeff Bowman.

The Task Force was asked to identify what worked well, what did not work, and what could be done to prevent conflagrations and to better respond to wildland fires in the future by answering these questions:

- 1) How can the region be better prepared for emergencies?
- 2) How can the region more efficiently use existing resources?
- 3) What changes are needed to existing codes, regulations and ordinances?

The recommendations of the Task Force were designed to serve as action items that can be implemented and measured for effectiveness. Some recommendations have been initiated at various levels and are permanently employed, while others require further action. Additional recommendations will require the cooperation of federal, state and local agencies, as well as identification of permanent funding sources and community support.

It is essential that we, as a community, learn from this experience and apply the recommendations of the Task Force to all risk hazards, as San Diego County is susceptible to fire, flood, earthquake and terrorism events. With these hazards in mind, the task force has been committed to the effort of improving our ability, as a region, to respond to any disaster that may occur.

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

MISSION

Mayor Dick Murphy and Supervisor Greg Cox established the San Diego Regional Fire Prevention and Emergency Preparedness Task Force in November 2003. The Task Force was established to provide a forum for representatives of all public safety disciplines to review, discuss and develop proposals for all risk service enhancements in the San Diego region. Fire and law enforcement professionals, federal, state and local representatives and community officials were appointed to the Task Force.

SUMMARY OF TASK FORCE REPORT

The Task Force members were welcomed by Mayor Dick Murphy and County Supervisor Greg Cox in December 2003, and were provided a general overview of Task Force membership, mission and time lines, goals and staff support.

The Task Force established nineteen sub-committees and addressed issues including public education and volunteerism in the community, regional mutual aid agreements, communications systems for emergency responders, and notification of civilians as well as long range necessities of brush management policies, code enforcement and community planning requirements.

Each sub-committee researched their respective topic and supplied background information, technical issues and solutions, research of successful strategies, existing and required resources, and sustainability options.

The final report of the Task Force was completed and submitted to Mayor Murphy and Supervisor Cox on October 7, 2004. The report was then presented to, and approved by the San Diego City Council and the San Diego County Board of Supervisors. The report was also made available to the general public via the official websites of both San Diego City and San Diego County.

Further validation of the report was its inclusion in the California Governor's Blue Ribbon Fire Commission's Legislative Committee on Emergency Services and Homeland Security Report in November 2005.

The Task Force was committed to developing goals and actions that were measurable and could be achieved. Therefore, the Task Force agreed to re-convene a year later to review their progress, and to identify any additional action plan items.

This update is the result of that meeting and represents the final review by the Regional Task Force Co-Chairs. This update is being distributed at this time to inform all participants of the progress made involving the following recommendations since the final report was originally submitted.
