Last year, I first noticed [redacted] and as the year went on he would stop in front of me and look me up and down very slowly. Many people in [redacted] would see him do this to me and a few other girls. He would also make comments like "you're hot" or "you're attractive". I heard him do this. If I wouldn't show up to school he would text me "where were you today, I missed you". He would also send hearts and kiss emojis. If he saw me with a male friend he would stare and tell me to stay away from boys. Throughout this and last year, he would also pass by and slap girls butts. Personally, I have only seen it happen to me and [redacted]. Another girl. Last year me & a girl named [redacted] were his main targets. This year it's me & [redacted] when he saw an opportunity he would also slide his hand onto your thigh. Recently, I was in a bad mood and he asked what was wrong. I told him I didn't want to talk about it and he became quiet. We were on our way to pick up [redacted].

I asked [name] if he was okay and he replied in a mocking tone, "I don't want to talk about it." and then I told him, "when a director asks you a question, you answer." He then got out and slammed the car door. The same day we had rehearsal after school and I had the dress on, there were pins left in the dress and [name] took them out, then he called me to him lifted up my dress and felt around for more "pins" while he was staring at me. He does this when we are sitting or standing. He will stare at my breasts or butt. He will also put his hand on my waist and just leave it there. He also offers to buy things and everytime I refuse he gets mad. Most recently, at dress rehearsal I was getting something off of my seat and he was bent over. He grabbed and squeezed my waist and pulled me back rubbing himself against me saying "excuse me," a person in the audience was willing to testify if called upon regarding this incident.

Mr. Atienza treated me like someone he could say whatever he wanted to. He would trace his fingers on my thigh, place his hand on my inner thigh, smack and touch my butt, feel up my bra for bra straps. He got mad if I talked about boys and he would get mad if I ever kept any secrets from him. He would give me rides home everyday and regularly take me out for lunch and errands with him. He would make comments about my body. "You have your mother's figure," "You have a really nice body." or say I was pretty, sexy, and beautiful. He would tell me that my best friend (_____ ) is only my best friend because he (____) wants to have sex with me. Mr. A. would move my shirt up and touch my hip and waist, rubbing my torso almost everyday (on my skin). He once tried to get me to go to a hotel with him after (____) but I stopped the situation by running into/hanging out with (____) he told me I'm bullied because I'm hotter than all the other girls at this school. He told me that guys like it better when girls wear lilies (not bras). Because the breast is more visible. He also would ask if I was wearing a bra or not. He once grabbed my neck and told me I have a good neck for chokers. (flip to back)

Mr. A makes relationships with girls that at first seem "fatherly", but then evolve into something more. He has taken me after school many times and he makes extra effort to be alone with me or other girls. After my last day of school of first semester last year I was with him alone in the car— he was driving me home and we started talking about what would happen if all of us were on an island, he went straight to the topic of who would have sex with who— I changed the subject right away. He has touched my thigh and slapped my butt when I was sitting on a counter in his office earlier last semester. He has taken me after school for hours at a time and bought me countless meals. A couple weeks ago I got to school late (on a holiday) because I had just driven back from Orange County. He was dropping off at home and I was excused for the day so I went with him during 5th period. He stopped at the store and he bought me food and I was wearing a lower shirt and he wouldn't stop staring at me. He always texts with hearts and heart eye emojis and he always has physical contact when he talks to girls who he "loves". He showed me his Pinterest and walked me through what he thinks looks attractive on girls and

He person in question very often puts his hand on girls' waists and he has slapped girls' butts many times. When substitutes that have been in our classroom tell stories of Mr. A being a "pervert" or "creep" when it comes to girls, he would try on inappropriate dresses, even if she was uncomfortable with it. He made her put her hands on her sides even though she wanted to cover her overly exposed breasts with them. Last semester I had his phone and he was texting his past student, who was in last year. Everyone knew that she was one of his favorites. He was offering a free ticket to see a show with him that weekend and saying they'd have dinner first. Then he told her to "dress to impress" and she said she would. He then told her that "like always" and he said "true" with a smug face. He spent a lot of time with her and was always touching her (waist touching, staring, etc)

For a while I have heard stories of Mr. Atenza acting inappropriately with his female students. My friend [REDACTED] has told me that he has been making inappropriate comments to her and sometimes mouthing unnecessary physical contact with her, like touching her thighs and even taking her out to eat or driving her places. She has also been treated differently and has confided in me about Mr. A coming up behind her in the bus to [REDACTED], and grabbing her hips to get around her. She said he pressed himself against her, and that it made her uncomfortable. I often hear people say Mr. A makes every girl uncomfortable because he looks them up and down or stares. He also [REDACTED] while she was wearing no bra and rubbed his hands down her back. Questioning if she was wearing a bra. Also he invited her back to a hotel room he had with his family, and it seemed that he was trying to get her alone, but she stayed in the park.

☐ I would not be willing to testify. State reason why:

I would not be willing to because I haven't seen anything with my own eyes, but I truly suspect that he has been acting inappropriately. I've heard it in the past, and even now, stories of Mr. A being too friendly, but this is all what I've heard, so I can't justify it if I had to.

Well, we had a  in  and it ended at 7:00am almost 8:00am. We had to wait for the bus to arrive because our regular clothes were in there and we needed to change. I was one of the last students to get dressed and by that time, my dad called my cellphone. I was getting on the bus at that time and I was directed towards the back of the bus because that is where I sat. One of my...
